A modest sprint handicap in which those that raced prominently towards the nearside of the track dominated. The quartet that raced far side never had a prayer, even though Surely This Time soon blazed off into a clear advantage, but he folded tamely and couldn't even manage to win the race on that side, that honour going to course-specialist Spirit Of Coniston back in eighth. MOTTLEY CREWE was drawn lowest of those that came to race stands' side and his rider's decision to switch that way probably won him the race. Blinkered for the first time, he did well to get across and bag the rail in front considering his starting position and he proved game when challenged. This was his first try at the minimum trip in over a year, but the testing ground would have helped him in that respect and, as his two previous wins had come on the all-weather, it seems very likely he will be kept on the go. Bailadeira was always in about the same place in the nearside group and tried hard. Still comparatively lightly raced, she seems to be gradually improving at a modest level and can find a race like this. Suddenly Susan travelled strongly close to the pace, but hung away to her left in the latter stages. She is at least as effective on Fibresand. Prince Of Vasa, still without a win since his reappearance last season, was down to the minimum trip for the first time but was another to hang away to his left inside the last furlong. El Dececy, carrying a 6lb penalty after landing a gamble at Bath nine days earlier, had the plum draw as things turned out but never looked like following up. [DB].

Quite a valuable prize for this highly competitive 81-95 Dash. They raced in two distinct groups, five sticking to the far side headed by the first two home. VERINCO is all speed and came into this in very good form. Better suited by stiffer tracks, the soft ground compensated and he made all from stall one. He is just the tough type of sprinter his trainer excels with. Favourite Girl, beaten a head from a 2lb lower mark a year ago, again had to settle for second spot. Her last win was from a 4lb lower mark over a year ago and she has returned to top form in cheekpieces. Singeur, back over his best trip, bounced back to his very best, leading the charge home on the stands' side. Cocktail Charlie, beaten on all tenstarts since making a winning debut, wore blinkers instead of cheekpieces. He confirmed he is on the way back after a lean season, finishing second best on the stands' side. Lucky Numbers, unlucky not to score at Chester on his previous start, has a good record here. This was his first start for five weeks, unusual for a sprinter having his 44th career start, and he may well have needed it to sharpen him up. [WG] QUOTES: Winning trainer Bryan Smart: "It was always the intention to stay on that side of the course because Verinco breaks fast and runs fast. He's had a good year and he'll be able to go for the Epsom Dash next season. ".

On a bright, sunny day the ground was described as soft. Four previous winners in this event but the form book went out of the window. I'LL BE GOOD, winner of just one of his ten starts, is rated just 74 and had plenty to find. He travelled strongly and there was no fluke about it. He clearly relished give underfoot Quite A Thing, who had 15lb in hand of the winner on official ratings, won two of her first three starts but has not really progressed since. She missed the break and left herself with too much to do. Red Shadow, the only maiden, is rated just 57 after nine previous attempts. It is hard to believe she has improved. Redair, runner-up in a claimer on the all-weather at Kempton three days earlier, is another who has not gone on after a bright start. She went right at the start and was always tending to edge left racing isolated towards the middle of the track. Pontefract 6f maiden winner Glamorous Angel was a major disappointment, dropping right out after being in the firing line to halfway. This was simply too bad to be true and his rider reported 'he never went a yard on the soft ground'. [WG] QUOTES: Kenny Johnson, assistant-trainer: "I'll Be Good is a grand horse and very honest. The key tohim is soft ground and, as we know now, he is best being held up and taking a lead. ".

A moderate amateur riders' sprint and they were spread across the track. The time was slower than the two earlier juvenile races. SHARP BULLET had not won since his debut back in 2008 but ended that sequence with a last-gasp victory. Held up early, he came out of the pack down the outside and gradually closed on the leader in the last furlong, getting up on the line. He was due a success, having been runner-up five times this season. Triskaidekaphobia, having his second start for his current trainer, jumped quickly and nearly made all to gain what would have been his 11th success. However, after being clear over a furlong out, he tired and was caught on the line. See Vermont put up his best previous effort over 5f on fast ground andshowed up throughout. This was only his seventh start and he has time on his side. Uddy Mac, with blinkers back on, was drawn out wide and ran with credit, staying on down the outside in the wake of the winner. He seems to need a sound surface butmight be worth trying on Polytrack if the ground goes against him. Danum Dancer, who was having just his second start after over ten months off, raced prominently although he ran rather wide at the intersection of the courses. His rider appeared to sit still inside the last half-furlong, which looked to have cost him fourth place. Kyllachykov, making his handicap debut on his fourth start, ran his best race so far on the fastest ground he has encountered. This was a step forward and, like his stablemate, he has time on his side. Dower Glen was well backed but failed to pick up after tracking the pace and never got competitive. [AR].

A modest maiden and fairly uncompetitive, with the betting featuring just four. The time was 0.86secs faster than the opening nursery, though. ANNIE BEACH was just beaten on easy ground at Haydock last time when racing into a headwind and gained compensation on this faster surface, keeping the leader company before asserting decisively in the last furlong. Already a bargain at just 800euros, she looks capable of winning again, but much depends on what the handicapper does with her. Untold Melody ran on from well back and was closing in on the winner all the way to the line, but never looked like catching her. She had looked in her previous runs to need longer trips and, now qualified for handicaps, will be of interest over 6f plus. Come On Dave, who was reluctant to load, went left out of the gates but was soon in front and did his best to make all. However, he could not shake off the winner and faded quite quickly once headed. Gran Canaria Queen was squeezed out at the startand had to come from well back to reach her final position. This was a big improvement on her debut effort and she looks one to be interested in once qualified for handicaps. Half A Billion had finished in the frame on his seven previous starts but the most recent of those were on a stiffer track, on softer ground or over further. He chased the leaders from the start, but could make no impression in the second half of the race. [AR] QUOTES: David Barron of Annie Beach: "She's lookedlike she was barely getting the trip the first time she ran, but she got it well enough today; the ground helped her. Her future depends on what the handicapper does to her. ".

Soon pushed along in rear, behind after 2f, tailed off

The weather was dry and there was a strong crosswind. A modest nursery but fairly competitive, as evidenced by the fact that the first five were separated by just under a length. UNCLE TIMMY was 8lb better off with the favourite for 4l comparedwith their Beverley running, but he had a wide draw that day and was able to reverse the form. He was on the tail of the leader throughout and had to be brave to take a narrow opening between that rival and the rail, but forced his head through to lead well inside the last furlong and then just hold the late run of the favourite. Look Here's Lady, bought in after winning a selling nursery last time, was a well-backed favourite. She chased the two leaders and gradually closed them down, but could not quite get to the winner. She probably needs a stiffer test at this distance. Dark Ages, back on fast ground for the first time since winning his maiden in May, went off in front but possibly a little too quickly and was collared in the last 100yds. Elusive Bonus, whose win was gained on easy ground, chased the leading trio throughout and gradually reeled them in but could not quite get there. M J Woodward, whose best effort was when dropped to this trip on heavy ground last time, had to race wide and came from well back to finish right on the heels of the leaders. His turn does not look far away and he has been declared for Nottingham today. Slenningsford, whose best previous effort was over C&D on his debut, has been running over further of late and could never go the pace back at this trip. [AR].

They fanned out over two thirds of the track in this wide-open low-grade sprint handicap. With stall one a non-runner, SPIRIT OF CONISTION had the rails draw. A horse who hangs left, he needs the rail on his inside and making every yard he repeated his 2009 victory in this race from a 2lb higher mark. This was his 13th career victory on his 107th start. Silvanus, anchored off the pace, put three below-par efforts behind him staying on to chase his stable companion home in the last 100yds. Watts Up Son, outpaced at halfway, made his way to the wide outside. In first-time blinkers, he finished with quite a flourish. His previous three starts were over 7f and 1m and this was a good effort over a sharp 5f. Beautiful Day, who lost his rider at halfway at Chester four days earlier, was handy throughout but he seems better suited by the AW. Kalahari Desert, drawn one off the outside, appeared late on the scene and is still a maiden after 24 starts. Mercers Row, absent for almost a year, showed plenty of toe on what was just his third start for this yard. Tyrannosaurus Rex, having his second start for this yard, had first-time blinkers but he is a poor mover and is better on the all-weather. [WG].

The ground had dried out on a bright, breezy day, and was reported to be riding as the official good. The wind was brisk and half behind. An ordinary juvenile maiden and the strong-travelling pacesetter soon had the field spread out. FREE ZONE,well beaten on his nursery debut from a mark of 77 when he wore a visor for the first time, was one of just a couple to keep tabs on the leader from his outside draw. He stuck on to show ahead near the line and break his duck at the fifth attempt. Come On Dave, beaten in two sellers and a claimer on his first three starts, had the worst of the draw. He flew out of the traps and set a strong pace against the far side rail. Although starting at 66-1, he actually traded as short as 1. 1 in running. Clearly vastly improved, he looks sure to go one better. Rusty Rocket, third in a modest event at Nottingham on his second start, was very free to post. He kept tabs on the leader but did not see it out as well as the eventual winner. Towbee, placed on his first two starts, struggled to go the pace and a return to 6f in nursery company looks on the cards. Newcomer Gowanharry, out of a tough sprinter who did so well for this yard, was on offer at 10-1 in the morning. She completely fluffed her lines at the start and, still last at halfway, made steady late ground under a very considerate ride. She is a lot better than she showed here. Superplex, on his tenth start, has finished runner-up three times and had been beaten favourite on four of his last five starts. He could never go the pace and is not progressing at all. Indyend showed a lot more than on her two previous starts. Likewise My New Angel, and they are both now qualified for nurseries. Becksies, runner-up in a seller here in April on her only previous start, was sticking on in her own time when running out of racing room inside the final furlong. A claimer or seller looks within her compass. [WG] QUOTES: Trainer Bryan Smart: "Free Zone was never at the races in the Newbury Sprint, so I tried to do something different, but I cocked it up last time by putting a visor on him, because he wouldn't face it, even though he'd worked really well in it at home. He's a nice horse, who really wants a stiffer 5f than this. ".

A two-horse contest according to the betting but that was not the way things turned out. The runners kept to the centre of the track.

TONGALOOMA has been running well of late on a soft surface and reversed last-time-out form with Blown It on 6lb better terms, although getting first run on a track that played more to her strengths than it did the runner-up looked the overriding factor. She has had little racing, so might yet progress further. Blown It has won here before but couldn't get himself organised quickly enough on the undulations. He is quite a leggy sort who may well have more to offer back on a flatter track. Sharp Bullet ran his usual game race up with the pace without ever looking like he was going to win it, while Dispol Grand stayed on well after taking time to pick up and remains at the top of her form. Sandwith again showed signs he is not a lost cause for all he wasn't helping his rider much by hanging left, but Liberty Ship didn't look to have any obvious excuses and might have emerged from his purple patch. Kalahari Desert finished behind Blown It for the third time in a row. [GN].

Not a bad race for the class. There was a speed duel, triple course winner Spirit Of Coniston taking on Inde Country, who was off the mark in a Polytrack seller last time, and those two were unsurprisingly picked off by the closers. The former compromised his chance further by hanging left. The strongly supported BLOWN IT was well placed considering the hot tempo, before being produced with every chance out wide, but he carried his head high and looked odds against to go through with his effort once moving into second late on. However, the leader, Liberty Ship, is a weak finisher and Paul Hanagan persuaded his mount to just do enough. The winner was ending a losing run dating back to August 2009 and first-season trainer Keith Dalgleish,for whom this was a 21st winner from just 106 runners, continues to impress. However, while Blown It may take some confidence from the victory, he won't appeal as one to back to follow up. The big horse Liberty Ship didn't do much wrong, but hehas only a short finishing burst and just failed to defy the penalty for his latest Yarmouth success. Kalahari Desert, 2lb wrong, paid for chasing the strong gallop. The hard to win with Piste, who was briefly reluctant to go behind the stalls, was outpaced at a crucial stage before keeping on. Only 1-35, she has to be worth another try in headgear (runner-up only start in blinkers), and a stiffer track may help. Andrasta, successful under an amateur over 6f at Thirsk three days earlier, was never going this time. [RW].

A modest claimer judged by the proximity of the fourth. FOL HOLLOW stood out at the weights and got the job done, although the bare form suggests he's run below his recent best. Quicker ground probably suits him ideally, and he can probably win again in this sort of company, but the handicapper really should drop him a few pounds on the back of this. David Nicholls was winning the race for the fifth time in the last 11 years. Both Patch Patch and Sands Of Dee would have been over a stone better off with the winner had this been a handicap. The former left some ordinary efforts behind and returned to the form that saw him finish second over this C&D on his reappearance, while the latter confirmed his recent good form with ground conditions to suit, although the way he raced suggests a return to a stiffer track will suit in future. Tongalooma is rated just 49 and would have been 24lb better off with the winner in a handicap, so her performance doesn't really do a lot for the value of the form. Look Who's Kool, who was blinkered for the first time, and Sharp Shoes both showed early pace before weakening. [DT].

A competitive-looking sprint handicap for 3-y-os but the winner made all and scored virtually unchallenged in comparatively the best time of the day. CADEAUX PEARL is best when burning off in front and had the track and draw in his favour here. Hewas soon clear in front and nothing could ever land a blow at him. Clearly suited by the sharp track, it would be no surprise if his trainer took him to Goodwood for one of the handicaps at the end of the month. Bay Of Fires had put up two of her best efforts on this track and was a well-backed favourite despite the fact she was dropping to this trip for the first time. She came out of the pack to chase the winner home, but never looked likely to catch him. Crimson Knot is a pretty consistent sort but could not go the early pace, although she did stay on past beaten rivals. Royal Bajan jumped well but was soon outpaced before keeping on and might be better off back in a slightly lower grade. Forty Proof, in first-time cheekpieces, could not go the early pace and did not get the clearest of runs. Gotcher and Berberana both paid for chasing the leader early on. [Ashley Rummye].

It rained in the hours before racing and riders in the first suggested that it was just starting to get into the ground. The time for the opener was only just over two seconds outside standard though, suggesting that conditions were still relatively quick at this stage. A weak clainer, contested by just one previous winner, the odds-on favourite. With him disappointing the race took little winning. LADY CAPRICE looked the main threat to the favourite on the figures and she stepped up on her previous efforts, breaking well and making just about it. The first-time blinkers helped. Sonko, whose rider could only claim a pound of his 3lb allowance, was tried in cheekpieces for the first time. This half-sister to prolific sprinter Gone N’Dunnett was not well drawn but came through for second without looking like getting to the winner. She is clearly moderate but may improve a bit further. There was a bit of a break to Justine Time, who plugged on for third. Connections had swapped cheekpieces for blinkers. Another in first-time headgear was Cooldine Cat, who was not discredited down in grade and is now eligible for the nurseries. The Dancing Lord had two wins to his name and had an obvious form chance. He was well drawn too, but slipped after a furlong, hitting the rail, and was again unbalanced as he chased the leaders heading to the furlong pole. Relegated two places late on, he has an inconsistent profile. He was reported to have lost his action. There was a little promise from debutante Lady Jourdain, a half-sister to three minor sprint winners. She looked green early but came home quite well from the back. Come On Dave came in for support down in trip, but after chasing the pace he faded badly late on. At least there was no repeat of the hanging he displayed on his debut. QUOTES: George Duffield, husband of winning trainer Ann Duffield: "Lady Caprice showed ability but she took a dislike to racing and we don’t know why. So we put the headgear on and it worked - but it may just work once. ".

Back straight and top bend moved in 3yds. A modest maiden in which those with the best form and experience dominated. The runners stayed far side. ALMOND BRANCHES put a modest latest effort behind her and probably showed a bit of improvement in the process, running down the pacemaker close home and probably deserving a bit of extra credit in that she did it from the widest draw. There’s plenty of speed in her pedigree, but she shaped here as though she’ll stay 6f and her future almost certainly lies in nurseries. Excelette has bags of pace and will always be best kept to a sharp 5f. Her future too lies in nurseries, but she is probably up to winning a similar event in the north given similarly fast conditions. Rougini looks something of a short runner for now, and didn’t see her race out anywhere near as strongly as it looked likely she would 2f out. Kyllachy Dancer, a half-sister to the useful sprinting 2-y-o BA Foxtro, was a springer in the market and left the impression that she’ll do a fair bit better with this run under her belt, getting behind early as her inexperience showed but catching the eye in keeping on well without being knocked about. Blue Belle Lady stepped up on her debut form in a 6f Thirk seller while leaving the impression she found this drop in trip all against her. She might be one her shrewd connections are bringing along with nurseries in mind. See Clearly had shown improved form on a softer surface over a stiffer 5f last time, and looked to be done for pace on this sharper track. Al Doha, whose sales price rose to 30,000gns as a yearling, looked all at sea on the undulations after missing the break, but the penny started to drop close home and she looks sure to improve next time, not least at 6f. Elusive Bonus attracted support at big odds, but dropped out tamely having briefly held every chance. QUOTES: George Moore on Almond Branches: “Her homework has always been very good and she’s very honest. ".

This looked a tight little handicap beforehand, but turned out to be anything but, LUCKY ART bolting up. Having the plum stall clearly helped, but the overriding impression was that this 5-y-o is back to the form he was showing earlier in his career, that no surprise given the current well-being of his yard, and he'll be tough to stop if turned out under a penalty next week. Kyzer Chief returned to form back at the scene of his win a month ago, though no match for the winner in the end after recovering from a slowish start to take up a prominent position. Bahamian Ballet is back down to the mark he won off at Nottingham last summer and left the impression he's working his way back to form, keeping on after being taken off his feet early. Wicked Wilma didn't get home over 6f last time, but couldn't go the pace back over a sharp 5f, though keeping on at the death. She's down below her last winning mark now. Ridley Didley had reacted well to first-time cheekpieces when scoring here last time, but he had been able to dominate from the best of the draw on that occasion and never looked like following up after being parked out wide this time. Ignatieff is potentially well treated, but is showing no sign that a return to form is imminent, while Spirit Of Coniston is becoming hard to predict, this one of his lesser efforts.

No depth to this maiden, though it does reflect well on RALPHY BOY that he was able to see off a battle-hardened rival on his debut, impressing with the way he travelled for a long way and just shading a tight finish. This son of Acclamation can only improve with this behind him. Superplex probably got back to the form he showed when runner-up at Beverley and should pick up a race at some stage, though it already looks as though he's always going to be vulnerable to anything with potential. Nameitwhatyoulike had shown nothing previously so this was clearly a step in the right direction. He wasn't unduly knocked about to get third, either, and he's got a bit of potential for low-grade nurseries. Dolly Danca again showed early speed and is another who will be able to find more realistic opportunities now she's eligible for nurseries. Look Here's Lady, a daughter of Kyllachy out of connections' useful sprinter Look Here's Carol, patently needed the experience, off the bridle throughout but hinting that she was getting the hang of things by the finish. She's in good hands and should be all the sharper next time. Elsie Tanner, a stablemate of the winner, was way too green to do herself justice, slowly away and behind throughout.

An ordinary sprint maiden, the emphasis firmly on speed over this sharp track, very few having the pace to get in a serious blow. DIAMOND BLUE caught the eye a bit on pedigree, being a Namid half-sister to several winners, including the useful sprinter Ingleby Lady, and she added to the family's good record at the first time of asking. She knew her job but can surely only progress, and the handicapper won't be able to go overboard with her. Take Root bettered his previous efforts, speed clearly very much his forte, making most. His handicap mark of 60 might suffer a little but he still has the potential to do a bit better after just 4 starts. Mecca's Team wasted no time putting a below-par run at Southwell behind her, though nothing any obvious excuses, showing early speed but not having anything for the finish. Triviality remains capable of better, just caught out by this sharper 5f having made his debut at Southwell, finishing to good effect having been outpaced early. 6f will suit him well. Wandering Lad matched the form he showed at 2 yrs for Declan Carroll without suggesting there's going to be much more to come from him this term. Majestic Millie had a bit on at the weights but essentially hasn't gone on since making the frame in a couple of low-grade handicaps here at the start of the season. Norton Girl's 4 runner-up efforts at up to 7f for John Quinn last year just about set the standard but she didn't get close to that level on her return, the drop to a sharp 5f not looking in her favour at all; taken off her feet from an early stage. Ollianna faded after chasing the pace but lowly handicaps are at least an option for her after this third start.

A competitive 5f dash but in the end very much a one-horse race. BRONZE BEAU, a winner three times in 2010, found his form with a vengeance on his third start this time. He dominated this field of speedsters from flag-fall racing wide. His rider, who gets on well with him, never had to ask him a question. Best when able to dominate, he will attempt to defy a penalty at Ayr on Wednesday. Taurus Twins, a winner four times in 2009, drew a blank last time. He had the worst of the draw and deserves credit for this. Select Committee, again running from a career-high mark, ran right up to his best but seems unable to run two races alike. Ryedane, having his 100th career start, has slipped to a mark 3lb below his last success. He takes time to find his form and this was much more encouraging, staying on late after getting outpaced. A stiffer test suits him a lot better. Green Manalishi, on a lengthy losing run, never entered the argument. Mr Wolf, unable to dominate, dropped away in the final furlong. Six furlongs round the bend back at Pontefract will no doubt revive the old boy. Desert Strike, a winner seven times on the all-weather, has yet to get his name on the score sheet on turf and was sent off an unlikely favourite. He was being run off his feet by the halfway mark.

A maiden juvenile fillies' race and three almost in a line at the finish. ON THE DARK SIDE, a newcomer from a powerful stable with a good line to juvenile form, had the outside draw. She travelled much the best in the field but in the end had to beasked some serious questions. She will be much better suited by a step up to six and in time could prove useful. Slenningford, another newcomer, certainly knew her job and after taking the winner and one other along towards the middle she went downfighting. She looks a ready-made winner of a similar event. Economic Crisis, slowly away on her first two starts, proved difficult to load. Switched to race against the far-side rail at halfway she seemed to show much improved form but may have been flattered by her track position. Arachis Bow, from a speedy family this stable knows so well, stayed on in good style after getting outpaced. She is not very big but is sure to have learnt plenty. Marie's Fantasy, having her third start, struggled to keep up and was switched to the far rail at halfway. She has not progressed from her sound first run. Headstight is all pace but on her third start she again showed a tendency to hang left before dropping out in the final furlong. She may have to descend to claimers or sellers.

After a blustery afternoon the showers had little effect and on a fine, sunny evening the ground rode fast. A low-grade apprentice handicap and the pace was fast and furious. Headstrong RIDLEY DIDDLEY had the plum number one draw and showed his rivals a clean pair of heels throughout. Sporting cheekpieces he made it two wins on turf to add to his couple of all-weather victories. Sent clear soon after halfway he was never in danger of being caught, although there was precious little to spare at theend. He has a week to turn out without a penalty in open handicap company. Boy The Bell, 4lb higher than his 6f all-weather success at Southwell, was outpaced at the halfway mark. He put in some sterling late work and though effective over five he is much better suited by six. He should continue to give a good account of himself at this level. Spirit Of Coniston, three times a winner over this course and distance, was 5lb higher than his latest success on Southwell's Fibresand surface. He hangs and needs a rail on his left-hand side and from stall five was quickly across and chasing the winner. Tournedos, who ended a drought when defying a 1lb higher mark at Beverley last summer, stayed on in good style after being tapped for toe. The old boy prefers tracks with an uphill finish nowadays and an eighth career success may be waiting in the wings. Kyzer Chief, 4lb higher than when recording a second career success over course and distance two weeks ago, had work to do from his outside draw and could never dominate.

A modest finale in which the main action took place towards the far rail. KYZER CHIEF bounced back to form but is not one to bank on following up, given this was just his second win and things panned out ideally, with his rider’s claim also usefuleon the day. A sharp 5f suits him ideally. Patch Patch might have needed this first run for nine months but, if so, it did not show until late on. He looks to have lost none of his zip and seems sure to go well again next time in light of his record at this time of the year last season. Dancing Freddy never threatened to finish any closer under conditions that might have been quicker than ideal, albeit running respectably, but this run should not be taken as evidence that Mandurah is nowin the grip of the handicapper as her position towards the outside was not ideal and she left the impression the race did not get to the bottom of her. Hypnosis is hit-and-miss these days and was not at her best after a truculent display beforehand, while course winner Spirit Of Coniston was not ridden with some of the dash employed with him this year or given a hard time either after losing his place at halfway. Wicked Wilma probably needed this comeback run but was not helped anyway by getting bumped at the start.

A modest auction maiden with those that had run before only setting the bar low. JUDAS JO, the first foal of a 7f winner in Germany out of a half-sister to the high-class German middle-distance scorer Catella, attracted some money beforehand and ultimately ran out a more convincing winner than looked likely for some way, or the winning margin suggests, taking time to get herself organised on this tricky track but finishing to very good effect. She’s sure to do better and will be positioned by 6f and maybe 7f before long. Oneniteinheaven looked to have learnt from her debut at Pontefract and lasted longer on this sharper track, albeit probably in a weaker race, and whether she’ll improve much more has to be open to doubt. Miss Rosie, the second foal of a sprint winner in the US, shaped better than the result, arguably second best on the day, and should improve, never looking comfortable on the track as she constantly wanted to hang to the left so making it difficult for her jockey to ride her out. Mebsuta looked to just about set the standard on form but rather as on her debut she found things happening a bit too quickly for her and remains capable of better again over a stiffer 5f or 6f. Yearbook whose dam won at 6f and whose previous foals include the fairly useful sprinter Day By Day, is sure to do better. Soon on the back foot after missing the break here, and she made promising headway before either a lack of a previous run or that effort took. This trip looks fine for now. Imperial Weapon showed more than she did at Ripon on her debut but looks destined for sellers sooner rather than later. Musical Valley, quite a late foal and a very cheap purchase, showed pace to halfway but dropped away alarmingly quickly equipped with a tongue-tie. Come To Mind lost all chance with a very slow start and all in all was too green to do herself justice.

A competitive sprint handicap run at a strong pace. IRISH BOY was withdrawn when bursting out of the stalls on his intended reappearance last month. He got going this time and produced a sweeping run to pick off the long-time leader on his first run for a new yard after 120 days off. He showed only a couple of pieces of form on AW during the winter but has clearly been galvanised by this switch to turf and should have more to offer. Tancred Spirit gave it a good shot under a forcing ride but was overhauled. This was her second good run since cheekpieces have been applied and she may be able to hang on and get off the mark in a similar race. Majestic Millie attracted support but was short of room against the far rail at a crucial stage, and then her rider seemed to lose the reins for a few strides. Majestic Millie rates a bit better than her finishing position and still has some untapped potential for low-grade handicaps. Spontaneity chased home a higher-rated rival back in maiden company at Southwell last time, but she had every chance here and was held off a stiff-looking mark back on turf for the first time since her debut. Yours was well backed but she got agitated in the stalls and was never competitive. Misty Morn was disappointing in a bid to defy a 4lb rise for beating several of these in a C&D handicap last month.

It was dry overnight and the going was good to firm. A seller for 2-y-os. Most of the runners had not shown much and the race was weakened by the withdrawal of main form contender Ciara Boo. SEVEN YEAR ITCH was always outpaced after a slow start when 40-1 for a Windsor maiden on debut, but she broke well this time and put in a strong front-running display to win with plenty of authority. The form probably does not amount to much but it was a good step forward, and this Lawman second foal of a 1m Italian winner is bred to get quite a bit further in time. She was sold to James Bethell for 7,000gns at the auction. Becksies, the first foal of an unraced mare, looked inexperienced before staying on late to snatch second on debut. Nannerl was the clear form pick on her third in a 5f Wolverhampton maiden auction on debut. She was sent off a hot favourite and things looked to be going well for a long way, but she didn’t pick up when ranging alongside the leader and had no response when that rival kicked on again. Lilygloves was a bit keen but did quite well to keep battling away with the chasing trio. She still has a bit to learn but has progressed from her low-key debut run. Just Dixie, a distant 66-1 ninth of ten in a Beverley maiden on debut, struggled for pace. No Legs trailed home after an awkward start.

A moderate sprint handicap won by the only previous winner in the field. MISTY MORN didn’t achieve much during a winter campaign on the AW, but as a result she got to race off an 8lb lower mark than when last seen on turf, and a return to positivetactics back on grass saw her return to form. Tancred Spirit, racing from 1lb out of the handicap, had cheekpieces fitted for the first time on this switch back to turf. Never far off the pace, she ran a sound race. Trading had the benefitof a recent outing at Southwell but he was always just struggling to go the pace here, and it was only late on that he took third. Perhaps a stiffer track will suit him. Majestic Millie, in a handicap for the first time, was running from 1lb out of the weights, but that didn’t stop her going off a 6-1 shot. She ran up to her place in the market, showing speed for a long way. Yours reared up as the gates opened and lost all chance at the start. In the circumstances she didn’t shape too badly. Ezzles was very disappointing and his rider reported that he was never travelling.

Only 1mm of rain overnight, and the ground was given as good, good to firm in places (GoingStick 8. 1). An ordinary apprentices’ event to kick off the Flat turf season. Two came stands’ side, including the winner, while the rest stuck to the far side. BALLARINA is a speedy sort who likes to go from the front, so it probably helped that she was allowed to do her own thing on the stands’ side. She finished nicely clear of her companion Fear Nothing and, if turned out quickly on another speed-favouring track, may take some stopping, as she’ll avoid a penalty for this success. Kersivay, drawn in one, was never too far away and kept on well to finish on top on the far side. This was his first ever start over the minimum trip and clearly hehas the pace for it. Both Spirit Of Coniston, who likes it here, and Ridley Didley ran well considering they used up energy early crossing over from wide stalls to race prominently on the far rail. Rio’s Girl is already due to be dropped 2lb, which should help in the near future. There was some scrimmaging early on and one of the chief sufferers was Kyzer Chief, who lost his noseband in the process, and whose rider lost his irons. Garry Whillans later reported that the saddle slipped.
